

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

If a sufficient number wish to enroll, an evening school will be opened here, it was stated by Leon M. Farrin, superintendent of schools. Mr. Farrin is anxious to receive applications from those who would attend and such applications should be filed with him by October 15.

Evening schools have been conducted here for a number of years and there have been seasons when the attendance was large. Manifestly the town cannot maintain such a school in the number of applications is not sufficient to warrant the expense, but the town is ready and willing to provide the school if a sufficient number desire to attend.

By invitation of the Killbuck Women's club the Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs will come here next Wednesday, October 18, for the autumnal meeting, which is to be held at the Baptist church. The opening session is to be from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m.

Each club president in the federation has been invited to read her county report and a brief and condensed report of the outstanding piece of work accomplished by her club during the year, and during the morning session five-minute reports will be given on the work done by the clubs.

Included in the features arranged for the afternoon session will be an address by Mrs. Elizabeth Towne of Holyoke, Mass., chairman of the lecture bureau of the New England conference, her subject to be Club Work and the Education of the Child. Mrs. C. Alton will sing and a violin number will be given by Mrs. Sidney H. Perry.

Reports of the biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, held at Chautauque in June, will be given by members of the Connecticut delegation and there also will be reports on the New England conference held at Swampscott, Mass., during the past month.

Invitation to the federation for the annual meeting and the annual meeting will be read.

The fall meeting in Danielson will bring together representatives of many clubs in various towns and cities throughout the state. Mrs. James M. Paine is in charge of arrangements for the dinner that is to be served the delegates.

Rain did not stop the more enthusiastic of the hunters from getting out into the shooting grounds on Tuesday, and some of those who were so enthusiastic as to be compared with the hunters of the past were well rewarded for their time and trouble. Pheasants are being shot in this territory in considerable numbers, and it is evident that some of the birds released only three weeks ago already have fallen before the hunter's aim.

Numbers of partridges, which are quite plentiful, have been brought in during the past two days.

Maxime in Erin, at the Orpheum theater Monday evening, proved an especially fine attraction. Especially appreciated was the singing of Wall Swanson, and some of the local people who heard him were so enthusiastic as to compare his voice with a certain great tenor. The stage settings for the production were very pretty and the entertainment on the whole very pleasing.

PUTNAM

Police of this city and Providence were engaged Tuesday in an effort to locate Doris Reynolds, 18, and Helen Ingraham, 16, missing from their homes in Thompson since last Sunday morning.

During the 48 hours that had elapsed between the time of their disappearance and Tuesday morning no word had come from them, and all that was known here about their movements concerned a peep almost immediately following their departure from their homes.

They are said to have been seen together at the railroad station here Sunday at noon, but evidently did not leave here on a train, for during Sunday afternoon they are reported as having been seen walking along the state highway near the Keach place on the Chepachet highway and still later plodding along in the rain near the Twin Elms, a few miles out of Providence.

Their reasons for leaving their homes and their proposed plans of action after leaving are about as much of a mystery as anything is known. Excepting for the bidding of a mysterious goodbye to a girl friend by the Reynolds girl after a Saturday night visit to this city, there seems to have been no advance inkling that the Thompson girls were about to leave their homes without ceremony.

When the Reynolds girl told her mother Sunday morning that she was going to spend the day with the Ingraham girl and that the Ingraham girl told her people that she was to spend Sunday with the Reynolds girl, it is believed that they made their way out of Thompson by one of the back roads, eventually reaching the state highway running from Chepachet into this city, came here, then made their way back over the Chepachet route to Providence, which city is being searched by the police in an effort to locate them.

It is believed that the Reynolds girl, who has been employed at a postoffice in the town of Thompson, had about $40 of her savings when she left home and that the funds of the Ingraham girl were not in excess of $150.

Not a theory had been advanced up to Tuesday afternoon as to why the girls should go away. They have pleasant homes and have never given any evidence of a desire to go away, nor were there any circumstances in their lives that would tend to indicate they would be led into such a course.

The entire affair is a puzzle to relatives and friends of the girls as well as to the officials who have been investigating it.

much time was required Monday morning for hunters to become informed that Governor Everett J. Lake had lifted the ban on shooting and there was a great number of hunters in this section and nearby towns for woods and fields where game is found. Long before the noon hour Dr. William Sargent, of Putnam, had been called to the scene of a shooting, where a number of hunters were gathered.

Rev. J. J. Elly was greeted by friends here Monday. He is far on the road to recovery after undergoing a serious surgical operation at the Day Kimball hospital but as yet has not undertaken to resume his work at Holy Trinity parish in Putnam.

Frank Cogswell of Louisville, Ky., arrived here Monday to spend a week with relatives in Thompson. Mr. Cogswell formerly was resident at Elmville and is a graduate of Killbuck High school.

During the past financial year of the town of Putnam the total circulation of the Bulletin was 1,384, of which 1,039 non-fiction, 1,067 juvenile. Circulation of books in schools totaled 2,707. The total number of readers was 982, which is about ten per cent. of the population of the city and the number of new applicants was 312.

Observers note that increasing numbers of cars laden with coal are now coming northward to Putnam and points beyond. Sunday and Monday freights hauled a considerable amount of coal through this city.

Numbers of Putnam people will be in Stamford today attending the fair. County Game Warden Harry E. Batey of Woodstock and a number of his deputies were at Monday checking up on hunters to see that they obeyed the game laws.

Next spring may witness the beginning of the work of constructing the beautiful memorial chapel for which funds were provided in the will of the late Harriet C. Woodstock of Putnam, at the Grove street cemetery in this city.

About $40,000 is now available for this work, which has been delayed because of high building costs and other circumstances, including the depreciation of Liberty bonds, in which the funds are invested, in the period following the armistice.

Liberty bonds are now selling at par and over. The interest has been coming in regularly since the memorial chapel fund was established. While building costs have not receded materially, or at least as much as the trustees of the fund had hoped might be the case, it seems probable that the building work will be undertaken next year.

During the past summer preparatory grading work has been done and several hundred dollars expended in making ready for the actual building of the chapel, which will be as fine as any in the state.

No definite announcement had been made up to Tuesday afternoon as to whether an evening school will be conducted in this city during the present fall and the coming winter, although it is known that the matter is receiving consideration from the town school committee, and a decision probably arrived at within a few days.

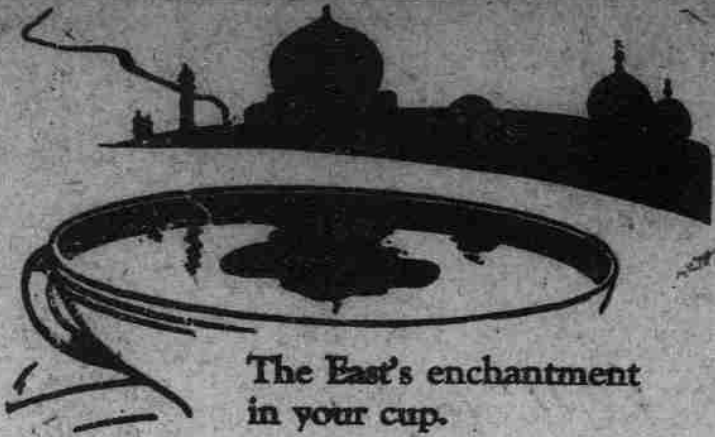

For several years past evening schools have been conducted by the town of Putnam and have attracted numbers of pupils, a considerable number of them anxious to learn the English language. Others have taken the evening courses to improve on limited education.

Opening of the fall campaign preceding the election set for Nov. 7 is planned for the latter part of next week following the caucuses at which candidates for representatives will be named in all towns hereabout within the next few days.

Rallies that are being planned by leaders of political parties will bring well known speakers to this territory and included among them will be Congressman Richard P. Freeman, who is a candidate for re-election on the republican ticket.

Yellow bands are being placed on poles and fence posts bordering the state highway running northward to Worcester and southward from this city. These bands later will be numbered for the guidance of motorists as has been done on the east and west route through Putnam.

instances over a provision of the game laws requiring that they make a return of game taken during the present open season. It is pointed out that much return shall be made at the close of the hunting season and not after each day of hunting, as some believe.

Rain and falling leaves have added to the danger of skidding and skidding cars have added to the troubles of drivers during the past few days. A section of state highway fence was damaged by a car that was also hit with scars of the crash when a machine slid into the side of the highway on the route to Attawapung Tuesday afternoon.

Next Friday will bring delegations from many churches of the state to attend the Windham county Sunday school convention to be held at the Methodist church in North Grovesdale. Wallace J. Woodin will be one of several well known speakers who will address the meeting.

It is estimated that $125,250 will be required for the expenses of the town of Putnam during the present financial year. Of this amount $42,000 will be required for schools, $10,000 for outside poor, $10,000 for interest, $5,000 for highways, $5,000 for the insane poor, $5,000 for the town farm, $1,000 for the hospital, $2,500 for insurance, $3,000 for the state tax, $1,200 for selectmen's services, $700 for assessors' services, $400 for a physician for the poor, $800 for culvert upkeep and cutting brush, $1,200 for military tax, $700 for printing, $1,500 for the public library, $1,000 for snow removal, $1,000 for the town hall, $1,000 for the town hall and $500 for the tuberculosis sanatorium.
